The GAO watches over Congress, and investigates how the federal government spends taxpayers dollars. The Comptroller General of the United States is the leader of the GAO, and is appointed to a 15-year term by the U.S. President. The GAO wants to support Congress, while at the same time doing right by the citizens of the United States. They audit, investigate, perform analyses, issue legal decisions and report anything that the government is doing. This is one of their reports. GAO found that: (1) blacks were underrepresented in some grades in three primary job series; (2) the Region X multiyear affirmative action plan identified the job series and grade levels in which minorities and women were underrepresented, but failed to include numerical goals and timetables for remediation or specific strategies for enhancing the advancement of blacks; (3) Region X affirmative action accomplishment and update reports lacked information regarding progress, achievements, and labor statistics; and (4) Region X did not comply with reporting requirements in collecting race and sex data for applicants.
