Jaded Ibis Press, United States, 2013. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .BLACK AND WHITE EDITION These rich, spare poems are here to remind us that we are mistaken, thinking so rarely of transformations, and when we do, in thinking mostly of the ends of them. Is the room places us in contact with transformation as action, where with this book's speaker, we come alive to domestic and sentient processes rife with illusion, breakings up and down, passing, being passed, hiddenness, exposure, signs, the failure of signs, waiting, glimpses, dismantling, joy. Rosetta Ballew-Jennings shares Jean Valentine's love of silences (deep listening is there), but these poems are completely her own, and with this stunning debut collection, ours. -Kathleen Peirce, poet, The Ardors and The Oval Hour In this debut collection Rosetta Ballew-Jennings brings an unflinching attention and a strong voice to the conversation. The site of crisis is interior - both inside the house and the that which we must go through alone. In many ways readers are housebound voyeurs, but in the end it's really us we're watching in these mirrored walls. Built on fragments that are both elegant and focused, Is The Room draws our attention to the isolation of looking, and the clarity of [s]omething I cannot find. -John Gallaher, poet, Your Father on the Train of Ghosts and Map of the Folded World Ballew-Jennings poems have us question the nature of relationship and life as people move in and out of our lives, and us across time. If the origin of the word haunt is to pull, claim, to lead home, then Is the Room is a collection of poems that both haunts the reader and feels haunted itself. Through...
