Excerpt: .time, that is, only by supplying a definite quantity of heat. (Italics mine.) This quotation from Mr. Spencer exhibits him in his strength and his weakness. He saw the heat of the sun creating plant life and animal life; he saw the transformation of an egg into a chick by heat; what more did he want to see? What more was there to be seen? Here was the force that he had written so splendidly about, shown in the concrete instead of in the abstract. He clearly points out the results that show this heat of the sun to be a force. He points out how it creates all life.--I ask what else is there to be created? It not only creates it but it carries it through to the end, then places the elements back into the earth to be again taken up and...
